

NO ARRIVALS HERE TODAY

MODERATE WEATHER PERMITTED ENTIRE FLEET TO SAIL THIS MORNING.

Bad weather yesterday prevented the fleet of gill netters from hauling their gear, as well as the small draggers and trawlers from fishing, the result being that this morning not an arrival of fresh fish was reported. Several of the boats reporting with fares yesterday, kept their catch iced aboard, carrying them to the grounds last night.

N. S. Pickled Fish.

According to reports given us by local houses, the trade in pickled fish is of small proportions at the present time, except in grocery herring. In preparation for the Lenten season the demand for these has been of about the usual volume for the time of year. As in dried fish, all export business in pickled fish is very quiet and the price of mackerel, alewives and spring herring remains unchanged. How soon the dullness in foreign market, will be relieved it is impossible to say.—Maritime Merchant.

DRAGGERS HAD FAIR RECEIPTS

NIGHT'S FISHING FLEET NETTED BOATS TOTAL CATCH OF 38,000 POUNDS.

Some of the fleet of draggers reporting this forenoon, took out at the Fort wharves, the results of yesterday's fishing. About all of those reported had fairly good hauls, running as high as 6000 pounds. Only two of the reported arrivals had 1000 pound hauls. Thirteen of the gill netting fleet lifted their gear yesterday for the first time in two days, landing around 22,000 pounds of fish.
